Dear Emergency Management Family and Friends,

Please consider joining us this coming year for the largest gathering of Native American emergency managers and homeland security personnel in the Country! If you have been waiting to reach into Tribal Country, then this is the conference for you! This year we celebrate the 5th Anniversary of the National Tribal Emergency Management Council, while honoring the 15th year of the NWTEMC conference. In addition, our partner organizations will be joining us in raising greater awareness to our Tribal Emergency Management programs across the country and increase even further information sharing across the Nation. Highlights for this year's event will include:

- ▲ The largest gathering of tribal disaster preparedness, recovery, hazard mitigation, and homeland security professionals in the nation.
- ▲ The Pacific Northwest is home to 272 of the nation's 573 American Indian tribes and Alaska Native villages. Hosting the Conference in Spokane, Washington will better facilitate the level of participation from our Tribes.
- ▲ Tribal, Federal, State, Local and Regional partners are well represented.
- ▲ Participants and presenters include tribal leadership and decision-makers from across the country.
- ▲ In attendance will be Tribes that currently provide protection to some of our Nation's most critical infrastructure, to include the International Border, the Grand Coulee Dam, US Naval Bases, Major Oil Refineries and International Shipping Lanes.

Please join us in working with our tribal nations to build and equip a more prepared and resilient future. Unparalleled exposure and goodwill can be gained from exhibiting at this conference. Register soon, as our exhibitor's have already started to book their space for this year's conference.

Most sincerely,

Del Ostenberg
